Hear what it is like to be an Equity Actor
Working in New York!

John Allen Biles has been a member of Actors Equity Association since 2000. He has performed regionally and nationally up and down the East Coast for audiences of all ages. A native of Pittsburgh, John recently relocated back to the area after a decade in New York City, performing both off and off-off Broadway all while auditioning for some of the largest casting offices and directors in the country. John earned his MA in Music Theater Vocal Performance from New York University and his BFA in Theater Arts from Point Park University. A few of his favorite roles include Tateh in Ragtime, the Emcee in Cabaret and Jerry in The Full Monty. Locally he has performed with the Pittsburgh Public Theater, Pittsburgh Musical Theater and The Theater Factory. Look for him in January at the Pittsburgh Public Theater where he will play Lewis Morris in 1776.
